To Join the Ranks of the Stars (Read-aloud version, without narration)

<https://youtu.be/hsl7jinGsE8>

"In this great universe, which seems as though it might have no end, how many galaxies are there?

And how many stars are there?"

Long ago, I asked a Space Brother.

The answer was as follows.

For now, you do not need to know,
and there is no need for you to know it.

Because the people of Earth are still unsteady even walking on their own feet, and are at a stage where they have forgotten even the essence of life.

Rather, what you should do is to know who you yourself are, and while cleaning the impurities of your heart, wish and pray for the harmony of the whole,
sublimate that awareness into the very principle of your actions,
and make it your own.

If only you live in that way, when the time comes, your questions too will be cleared up.

"I wonder how old the Earth is now?"

Have you ever thought about the age of the Earth within the vast, great universe?

Well, converted into the age of an Earth human,
it is in the period just before adulthood.

Within the solar system, the Earth is the youngest,

a star that could be called the youngest child.

That is why we have, all this time, supported you from the shadows so that you would not notice,
and have always watched over the growth of the Earth.

This planet, with a history of four billion years in your time, has experienced destruction and starting over six times in the past,
and is now in its seventh kalpa.

The seventh time in the process of planetary development means the due season of completion.

Try to remember the purpose for which you came to Earth.

You, the people of Earth, were originally cosmic divine spirits capable of making everything possible.

But since you transferred to Earth,
you once forgot that truth of life, and have been going through trial and error in muddy darkness, haven't you?

That does not mean at all that you went astray.
That very path was necessary for humanity's return to its truth and for planetary development.

Remembering that your own truth is the universe, in order to lead the Earth to become a star of perfect harmony, being reborn again and again,
polishing your divinity, and this time, at last,
at the final time of completion, you were born, fully prepared...
That is who you are.

Even at this very moment, there are stars being newly born, and stars that have finished their roles and are dying.

Seen from that grand divine plan of the movement of the universe, now the Earth is at the age just before adulthood, and is at the time when it is about to join the cosmic society.

Now, at this time,

"What is life?

Who am I?

Why was I born?

How should I live?"

Try asking these questions deep within your own life.

And when you catch the answer through inspiration, your life will change greatly.

Dissolving the small consciousness called "self" into the great universe, looking anew at yourself and the Earth with cosmic consciousness, the time has come to create an Earth in great harmony.

That is exactly why, now, race, ethnicity, national borders, ideologies and opinions, skin color, wealth and poverty...

going beyond such differences,

join hands with all of humanity.

For that, live in a way that brings harmony to the vibration of your own spirit.

That, more than anything, is what matters most.

When the heart is in order, its resonance spiritualizes even the physical body.

When both heart and body ascend in dimension, it also becomes possible to live by reviving the infinite power of the days when you lived freely and at will in both mind and body.

It is at the moment you firmly hold that awareness that you remember your awareness as a member of the cosmic society...

You are now working together with us for the development of the Earth, aren't you?

And you are no longer in a state of suffering, because you have already remembered your awareness as divine humanity.

And finally, let me tell you just one thing.

The time of our reunion as physical beings, which you have long awaited, has truly come very close.

That much I will tell you.

Many eyes of the universe are always watching over you.

Good evening, everyone. We will now hold the Saturday night Special Program.

Tonight, as mentioned in the announcement email, I would like to share about the revival of divinity from the perspective of what we no longer understand and what we can no longer do because our divinity has come to the surface — things we can no longer do in a good sense, things we no longer understand in a good sense. Thank you for being with us.

First, we will begin with the Prayer for World Peace, three minutes and twenty-six seconds long. Let us begin.

< Prayer for World Peace >

Thank you very much.

< About Unauthorized Access >

Before getting into the main topic, I will first talk about how to deal with unauthorized access.

Everyone, I think you have probably already seen and know about this from various news sources such as television, newspapers, magazines and internet news: people becoming victims of what is called unauthorized access, and having their information stolen.

For example, in the service industry, news that the customer information they had collected was stolen has been increasing greatly.

For example, recently a rental car company was hit, and information such as driver's licenses was taken, and the police of some prefecture responded by saying, "We will exchange your driver's licenses," which was also in the news.

When companies are targeted, it is something that we ordinary people cannot do anything about, but if the people in companies would properly pay close attention to their security measures, they would not suffer such damage.

Please imagine an actual burglar. For example, there is a house. The windows are properly closed. The front door is closed too. But while the people are out, a burglar comes, touches a window pane a little, and it opens. It had not been locked. Then the burglar can easily get into that house.

Exactly the same kind of thing is happening on the internet, and that is what is called unauthorized access.

I will talk about a few measures that we ordinary people can take ourselves, so I would like you to remember them. First, when you register for some service, use an email address that you can throw away. For example, create and use a free email address with Yahoo or Gmail.

Do not use it as your real, main email, but only for such services. That way, even if something happens, you only have to stop looking at that email, so you will not suffer damage through email.

The other one is the telephone. These days, even in homes without a mobile phone, the home phone often has a recording function, and I think some of you are already careful not to answer unknown numbers, but whether it is a mobile phone or a regular home phone, I think it is good to practice "never answering unknown phone numbers, no matter what."

And even if you are careful about such things, there are people who fall for scams. For example, here is a story I heard recently. While someone was browsing the internet, suddenly a message like "Your computer has been infected with a virus. To remove it, please call this number" appeared on the screen.

That person honestly made the call. But the voice of the person who answered sounded like a foreigner, and feeling that something was strange, they hung up immediately. Right after that, apparently the other side called back, but that person did not answer. After that, they contacted me. Even if you have made a call yourself like that, you only need to never answer again. If you do not answer even when they call you, you will be fine.

However, as I said earlier, when a company suffers unauthorized access and your driver's license information or credit card information registered with that company is stolen, it becomes a bit troublesome. For example, with a credit card, you contact the card company and have its use stopped.

Nowadays there are also services where you are given a credit card number for using services on the internet, and if anything strange happens while you are using it, you throw that number away and get a new one.

It seems that most of the access to steal driver's license or credit card information comes from Russia, China and North Korea, so I do not think it will lead to robbers coming to your house, but if possible, you could contact the driver's license center and have them register a change of your license number, something like that.

In this one month — today is October 10, so in the one month from September 10 to October 10 — nearly 500 Japanese companies have reportedly suffered this unauthorized access.

I also use various services, and I can see traces of attempts to get in on my side too. Traces can be seen, but the situation continues where I am not letting them in.

If any of you are having trouble with such things, please contact me individually by phone or email and I will help you, so please do not worry too much.

< A New Awareness That Has Recently Begun to Sprout >

So, it is already fifteen minutes past. In the email I sent on Thursday, under the heading "A new awareness that has recently come to the surface," I wrote down various things such as no longer knowing how to be sad, no longer knowing how to be angry, no longer being able to remember what an inferiority complex was, no longer being able to remember what lethargy was, and I have made the inspiration that was the source of that (an inspiration in the original resonance of the words) directly into a YouTube video.

I will explain later, but since the end of September I have been running a YouTube channel and publishing books on Amazon. Among those, this time I would like to watch the YouTube video I just mentioned together with you.

I will share my screen for a moment. This is the top page of the blog. A flying saucer appears. Then, when you press "Watch the video," it goes to the bottom of the page, and you press "View the YouTube channel."

This is the "content that put an inspiration into words," which is the source of the text I wrote in polite language in Thursday's email. I think it is a little over ten minutes. I will play it now.

#05 A New Awareness That Can Be Taken for Granted as the Light of Life Comes to the Surface

<https://youtu.be/DIhdD2auRCK>

Suppose that a new normal, in which you suddenly cannot remember how to be sad or how to be angry, has already begun —.

A message from the inner universe.

Today I bring you a message from a Space Brother, "A new awareness that can be taken for granted as the light of life comes to the surface."

As the essence of life, there is a "nature of light" that everyone originally has.

It is not something you acquire by learning, nor something you obtain through spiritual training.

It is something that has kept shining quietly deep within you since before you were born — no, since long, long before you were born.

For a long time, that light was covered by many clouds of thoughts and was hard to see.

But now those clouds are clearing little by little, and the light of life is rising to the surface.

When that light revives, negative thoughts stop crossing anyone's mind.

It is not that you forcibly deny them, or hold them down by enduring. They simply, naturally stop crossing your mind.

This is "the sense of the introductory course for living in the new era," which I want all people living on Earth to remember.

So please do not try to understand what I am about to say hurriedly with your head.

Savor it well, chew it well, swallow it firmly, and listen as if digesting it slowly in your heart.

Rather than the meaning of the words, please treasure the feeling that gently spreads deep in your chest when you hear them.

Here I go.

It is like this.

You no longer know how to be sad.

You no longer know how to be angry.

You no longer know how to be jealous.

You no longer know how to act arrogantly.

You no longer know how to hold a grudge.

You no longer know how to hate.

You no longer know how to deceive.

How is it? It feels a little strange, doesn't it?

Sadness, anger, jealousy — until now they were all too familiar to you.

Because when something happened, your heart moved in that direction almost reflexively.

But you see, when the nature of light comes to the surface, you gradually become unable to remember that very way your heart used to move.

It is a road you often walked long ago, but the grass has grown thick, and you can no longer tell where the entrance was.

It is something like that.

There is more.

You can no longer remember how to give up.

You can no longer remember how to pretend not to know.

You can no longer remember how to envy.

You can no longer remember what an inferiority complex was.

You can no longer remember how to shut yourself in.

You can no longer remember how to be crushed.

You can no longer remember what lethargy was.

Everything I just said was something you had learned in order to protect yourself.

Giving up so as not to be hurt, pretending not to know so as not to get involved, envying what you could not reach, underestimating yourself, you lived shut up inside a small shell.

That was not because you were weak. It is proof that you lived with all your might through an age when there was no other way.

But you no longer need that armor. For you, who are light itself, there was never a weak self that needed protecting in the first place.

Now, there is still more.

You are already unable to think in a way that rolls a snowball toward the worse and worse, making it bigger.

A tiny anxiety, before you knew it, had swollen into a mountain of worry. Your heart no longer chooses that way of rolling thoughts.

You are already unable to come up with the idea of running away when you think of taking on a new challenge.

"What if I fail? What if I am laughed at?" Before such voices, the joy of "I want to try it" wells up.

You already feel that comparing yourself with others and alternating between joy and sorrow is very childish, and comparing yourself with others has come to seem foolish.

A flower does not bloom by comparing itself with the flower next to it. Each blooms in its own color. You are the same.

You are already overflowing with love at all times, your heart has opened up, and you can no longer return to self-centeredness.

Love is not something that decreases the more you hold it back. It is a spring that wells up from within the more you pour it out.

Because you already intuitively perceive that the essence of life is one and the same, it has become difficult for you to see yourself and others as separate.

The same light is shining deep within the person in front of you too. You have come to understand that not through logic, but through feeling.

The thoughts of discontent and complaint that once occupied so much of your heart have faded, and even if you try to feel that way again, you already cannot.

The dissatisfaction that should have been so big — where has it gone now? Even if you look for it, you cannot find it.

You now neither underestimate nor overestimate yourself, and while embracing yourself as you are, you can be your true self just as it is.

You do not stand on tiptoe. You do not hang your head. You simply stand up straight. You should already know how peaceful that is.

In this way, now, a new consciousness completely different from the habits of Earth people is rapidly becoming your natural, everyday recognition.

And now, as I look at your hearts like this, I hear the voices of your hearts from here and there saying, "I can't do that at all."

"I got angry again today," "I still compare myself with others," "I'm full of anxiety," and so on.

But you see, even if you who appear on the surface now cannot yet do as these words say, that is no problem at all.

Because the driving force that creates the future is what you now take for granted.

Today's appearance is nothing more than past thoughts taking shape.

But tomorrow's appearance is born from what you now accept in your heart as "this is natural."

So there is no need at all to blame yourself for what you cannot do yet.

Rather, it is far more important to quietly keep in your heart, "My essence is light, so this is what is natural."

I have been telling you for quite a long time now, "The key to ascension is the evolution of consciousness," haven't I?

The evolution of consciousness is not about acquiring some special power.

It is that the habits of thought that have drifted away from divinity fade, one after another.

When the habits of thought far removed from divinity fade, even if you try to send out karmic thoughts, you no longer know how, right?

That feeling is what matters.

"Huh, how did I get angry again?" "How did I get depressed again?"

The very moment you are puzzled like that is the proof that your consciousness is surely evolving.

Even if past habits of thought raise their heads, you do not need to worry.

Habits engraved over many long years may show their faces at an unexpected moment.

That is because they are like "the last flicker of a candle," coming to the surface in order to fade away.

By now, even at such times, you are able to return immediately to your divine self, which is the essence of life.

All you need to do is breathe deeply and remember the light deep in your chest.

If only you do that, you will come to manifest on Earth "the nature of divine cosmic humanity," which is common to the cosmic society.

And that is not just for you alone.

It is for you to take the lead in showing the way that all of humanity on Earth should aim for.

One person's light reminds the person next to them of their light.

That person's light awakens the light of someone else again.

In that way, the whole Earth regains its original radiance.

Your new era has already begun.

The days of a new normal as light.

Yes, thank you very much.

It is almost 9:30, so finally, I would like us to form the Divine Spark IN once together and close. The prayer words are "Jinrui no Shinsei-Fukkatsu Dai-Jouju" (the Divine Spark of humanity, Dai-Jouju), repeated twice in Japanese.

< Divine Spark IN, once >

Yes, thank you very much.

Finally, about what I mentioned earlier: since around the end of September I have been running a YouTube channel called "AngelusBell" (Angelus Bell, the bell of the angels). I will send it to you later by email as well, but if you search for "AngelusBell," it will come up.

The Path of Living as Divine Humanity ~ To Open the Era of Interaction with the Stars

<https://ascension21.com/>

In the blog above, you will find information about the

YouTube channel "Ascension 21" and the books on Amazon

And on Amazon, I have published books as e-books and as printed books (paperbacks). Those who are registered with Kindle Unlimited can read them for free. The regular price is 980 yen for the e-book and 1,680 yen for the printed book.

As for why the printed book is more expensive, with Amazon they do not keep stock; each time there is an order, they print and ship it at that time, so the price is higher by the amount of the printing cost. I will let you know about that too by email later.

It is already 34 minutes past. Well then, this brings tonight's program entirely to a close. Thank you very much to the many of you who joined us again today.

I will now turn on everyone's microphones.

< Bye-Bye Time >

Thank you very much, everyone.

That's all.
